Cleveland Again Outclassed--Nationals Steal Eight Bases in One Inning

SIXTH STRAIGHT FOR GRIFFMEN

Indians Prove Easiest Kind of Picking, Final Count Is 11 to 4.

RUN THE BASES WILD

Eight Purloined Sacks to Credit of the Visitors in One Inning. Altrock in Box.

By CHARLES W. SWAN,

Sporting Department, Glevaland Leader, veland, Ohio, July 19.—Just to make ngs interesting, and to give the poor lowly last place Indians a chance, Brother Griffith decided to shoot Walter John-son at the tribe in the fifth game of the series this afternoon. But, after Walter had blanked Lee Fohl's tired, and de-spairing hired men for six innings, allow-ing only two bingles, while the Nationals had jumped all over Hagerman and Jones for eight runs, he decided to try out a promising young left-hander, Nick Altock. Washington won, 11 to 4.

Nick pitched three innings, and during his stay on the mound the Indians did manage to grab four runs. At that Nick wasn't at his best. Too much warming up in the bullpen sapped a lot of that old time "zip" out of Nick's trusty southpaw, whip, the whip that once sent even-tenored humans into the wildest

But, to get back to the game. As usual the Indians played impossible ball. The team as it stands today wouldn't win a game in the Virginia League, much less the American, and the sooner Owner Somers realizes this, the better off he League ball game, with Walter John-son, the greatest living pitcher, as the traight for the Nationals, the season's record for them.

Outside of winning the game, the Nationals set what is believed to be a world's record—that of stealing eight bases in one game, all in the first inning. Chick Gendil has regained his batting eye, as his four lusty blows today will show, while McBride's fielding was again the one real feature of the game, out-side of Johnson's pitching. Johnson didn't exert himself in the least—he just showed the ball over the pan, and let the Indians hit it. He didn't score a strike-out—it wasn't needed. To write the detail of a massacre like this would be asking too much of any human being, but suffice it to say that the Nationals simply walked all over this poor, mistaken ball club that represents Cleveland, hammered its pitchers hard, took advantage of its many mental and mechanical errors, and stole bases like a merry-go-round.

But here's the first inning—the real

Johnson flied to essary to win. Score:

Nick was in hot water in the seventh, his first session on the mound, but got by with only one score against him. With the bases full he fanued O'Nelli and caused Hoffman to fly to Gandil. The Indians got to him for three in the sighth on a couple of hits, but Nick was strong in the ninth. Same teams here tomorrow, the final

"What's the matter with baseball!" houts a calamity howler. Right away Joe Vila, the New York Evening Sun sporting editor, gets out his pencil and starts figuring, as folmates of the crowds that saw the National League and American League games on Saturday, the turnstiles counted more than 120,-000 fans. In New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, and Boaton the National League contests drew at least 76,000. The attendance at Ebsts Field was close to 25,000, while at the Polo Grounds probably 20,-000 fans celebrated the Giants' double triumph. The Cubs were paid for 17,000 admissions in Philadelphia, while the Braves' double-Park attracted a trifle less than 15.000. The total attendance at the American League games was about 44,000. The Red Sox and White Sox played to 20,000 in Chicago. There were 12,000 at the Athletica' game in Detroit, while the Yankees in St. Louis and the Washingtons in Cleveland each drew in the neigh-borhood of 6,000.
